A Legacy of Artistic Innovation

From its inception, Eastern Star Oberon has been driven by an unwavering commitment to artistic innovation. Its founders, Christoph Schlingensiefel and Amina Gusner, sought to create a theater that would challenge artistic boundaries, provoke thought, and stimulate dialogue.

Over the years, the playhouse has premiered countless original works and hosted performances by renowned artists from around the world. Notably,

Oberon was the site of the world premiere of Christoph Schlingensiefel's controversial play "Hamlet – Eine deutsche Hamletmaschine" in 1989, a production that ignited a national debate about German history and identity.

Exploring the Depths of Human Nature

Central to Eastern Star Oberon's artistic mission is the exploration of the human condition. Its productions delve into the complexities of human emotions, relationships, and social issues with unflinching honesty and raw emotional power.

From intimate character studies that dissect the inner workings of the human psyche to grand historical epics that grapple with the sweep of human history, Oberon's plays are known for their depth, nuance, and emotional resonance. By holding a mirror up to society, the playhouse invites audiences to confront their own humanity and to engage in meaningful conversations about the challenges and possibilities of our shared existence.

Artistic Vision and Collaborations

Eastern Star Oberon is guided by a distinct artistic vision that emphasizes collaboration, experimentation, and the blurring of artistic boundaries. The playhouse fosters a creative environment where artists from diverse disciplines—including theater makers, visual artists, and musicians—work together to create interdisciplinary productions that push the limits of traditional storytelling.

Oberon's commitment to collaboration has led to numerous groundbreaking partnerships, including projects with the Berliner Ensemble, the Deutsches Theater, and the Volksbühne Berlin. These collaborations have resulted in innovative and thought-provoking performances that have garnered critical acclaim and expanded the boundaries of contemporary theater.

Impact on the Contemporary Theater Scene

Eastern Star Oberon has had a profound impact on the contemporary theater scene both in Berlin and beyond. Its productions have challenged artistic conventions, sparked public dialogue, and inspired a new generation of theater makers.

The playhouse's commitment to diversity and inclusivity has made it a welcoming space for artists and audiences from all walks of life. Oberon's productions have featured voices and perspectives that are often marginalized in mainstream theater, contributing to a more equitable and representative cultural landscape.

A Vibrant Hub for Theater and Culture

Beyond its productions, Eastern Star Oberon is a vibrant hub for theater and culture in Berlin. The playhouse hosts regular workshops, readings, and discussions that bring together artists, audiences, and the broader community.

Oberon's intimate atmosphere and welcoming staff create a space where theater becomes a catalyst for connection and conversation. The playhouse serves as a gathering place for artists, intellectuals, and theater enthusiasts who share a passion for exploring the human condition through the power of live performance.

Eastern Star Oberon is a modern playhouse that has earned its reputation as a beacon of artistic excellence and innovation. Its productions illuminate the complexities of human nature with unflinching honesty and emotional depth. Through its commitment to collaboration, experimentation, and inclusivity, Oberon has become a vibrant hub for theater and culture in Berlin and beyond.

As the playhouse continues to push the boundaries of contemporary theater, it remains a vital force in shaping the cultural landscape of our time, offering audiences transformative experiences that challenge their perspectives and inspire meaningful dialogue.
